Team 5 User Feedback

Haonan Jiang, Team 10

I really like Productoro. It has neat design and easy-to-use functionality. I would definitely enjoy using it while studying or working. I did notice some small aspects of the webapp that may make user feel less comfortable. I believe Productoro is a great webapp already and some improvements would make it more user-friendly.

I am going to list aspects that I really like about and aspects that I think need adjustments based on my user experience.

What I like:

- Display the current timer on tab so that user could keep track of the time when broswering other websites.
- A help section to guide the user on basic instructions.
- Allow users to customize settings like time intervals and bgm.
- Convert sidebar to drop down menu to fit mobile users.
- Ideas for spending the break.

What I think could be improved:

- There could be some more instructions to introduce the rules of Pomodoro. For example, when will user get a long break?
- Once I refresh the page, the setting will be set to default and the tasks I created will be cleared. As an user, I would like that the website could save my setting for my convenience. Perhaps considering to use local storage for user setting and tasks.
- The timer displayed on tab could be moved to the front, something like (time - Productoro), so that the most important information could be seen first. Putting the time display in this way could also avoid missing time when tab shrinks due to too many browser tabs open.
- More flexibility for customization. I see that users could already choose from given time intervals, but it might be better to let them set the time to fit their preference.
- Display the progress bar of long break when on both work session and short break. (currently appear only when on short break)
- When I start a work session, even though I am prohibited from changing the time, I could still change it using "set to default" button.
- I am not sure what are some keyboard shortcuts I could use. When it is set to on, what exactly is on?
- The first time I use it, I was kind of shocked by the alarm. Maybe considering to give an option to preview the alarm sounds and volume.
- I know you are still working on the option button for tasks, maybe considering to add the functionality of changing orders of tasks.

- The link to "dream team" does not direct to the team about us page.
- Make the task displayed under "current task" larger.
- Move the copyright to the bottom of the page.

Overall, I think Productoro is a great webapp. Nice work, Team 5! I am listing as many small aspects I could think about so that you could pick some that you think is important and make changes accordingly. Hopefully, my feedback on user experience could help you getting closer to a 1.0 project.